ECrawl is an extremely powerful application for web crawling and is designed to allow you to do it very fast, producing over 2 million emails per hour. It can gather emails from virtually any site on the web, and then store them in your computer for later use in situations where you may wish to send mass emails, like in customer service, and other similar situations. ECrawl Features: Web Crawling ECrawl is able to crawl the web, looking for every site, every link and every email address that may be on it. It then saves each of these emails, in a local mail box format, to allow them to be searched easily, without having to do any data processing, that can be time consuming. ECrawl Statistics ECrawl can produce a range of statistics about how many emails it has crawled, or how many pages it has scoured. SOCKS Proxy ECrawl can use SOCKS Proxies to anonymise your connection, when you are connecting to the internet or browsing, so that you can remain anonymous. Forward and Reverse Lookup ECrawl will provide you with the IP and URL of the last and first visited website, it will then provide the original emails, titles and URLS that were used to navigate from website to website. Complex Email Searches ECrawl allows you to specify the number of email addresses you want to scrape, the domain, and keywords which should be found in the emails, allowing you to search thousands of emails at once. Time Zone Searches ECrawl can provide emails that were sent from and to specific time zones, or just within a certain area, allowing you to specify the time zone. Shopping Spam Filter ECrawl can use Spammer listings to filter emails that are sent by certain IPs. It also allows you to blacklist certain IPs if they are sending emails that should not be collected, or by the domain of the sender. Honeypot Filter ECrawl contains a Honeypot Filter, which allows you to search emails and list any that are in the honeypot list, allowing you to remove or add email addresses to the honeypot list as required, and then perform searches. Local Disc Search ECrawl allows you to search for emails that are stored on your local hard drive or CD, which will greatly increase your processing speed, as the emails are stored in the correct format for quick searching. Search Type Filtering You can search by title, subject, html body, ECrawl is an email harvesting tool that will crawl your favorite web based websites and harvest the emails that are currently on the server on the specific sites. It uses the HTML or RSS feed parsing standard to search these sites for emails that you specify and adds them to your own current email database in either an Outlook or Thunderbird format. ECrawl has the capability to search the entire web with a maximum depth of sub domain pages and an intelligent limit to ensure you do not receive thousands of emails. ECrawl has a 500 URL limit before you are sent to your option to purchase the full package with additional requests. The add on socks option will allow you to run ECrawl from a private network, preventing you being exposed to any malicious behavior that could drain your email accounts, this also prevents ECrawl from ever being blocked by online content filters. You are able to set private IP addresses so that your IP cannot be revealed to the search engines, and the application can be specified to search a specific website domain and even page on that site. ECrawl also includes a speed optimizations option that will stop the application searching beyond a maximum page depth, this is handy if you have large data bases already and don't want hundreds of emails being generated each hour. ECrawl can also create a web based content feed of your crawling results so that you can track how you are doing with the task, and you can stop the messages that you want even before they appear in your web based mail client. The email data base can be exported and imported back into the application, and messages can be tailored to a specific email based filter criteria. Every email you search will be copied and saved into a specified inbox and can be exported to a .msg file ready for an email program.
